ROBBERY OF THE MAIL.

BALTIMORE, MARCH 13.

To facilitate the transmission of the Eastern mail over the very bad roads between this city and Philadelphia, it has been conveyed for some time past in a light carriage usually called a Dearborn, drawn by four horses. Yesterday Lieut Ludlow, of the navy, being in this city, and anxious to proceed to the eastward as speedily as possible, obtained permission to accompany the driver in the mail carriage as far as Havre de Grace. The mail left this city as usual about 3 o'clock in the afternoon, and proceeded on to within about two miles of Havre de Grace, it being then about 11 o'clock, when the horses were stopped by a fence which had been made with rails across the road. Three men, dressed like sailors, two with hats on, the third without a hat, having a handkerchief tied round his head, and all armed with double barrelled pistols and dirks, approached together, demanded that the mail should be delivered to them and threatened instant death to Mr. Ludlow and the driver if they resisted. They first bound Mr. Ludlow and the driver to two trees in the adjoining wood, into which they drove the carriage, took the mail out and very deliberately opened all the letters.

They were thus engaged for several hours, and obtained from the letters which they opened, a large amount of bank notes which they shewed to Mr. Ludlow and appeared to be much gratified by their success. About three o'clock in the morning the robbers unbound Mr. Ludlow and the driver from the trees, and tied them to the carriage, from which they took the horses; each of the three mounted one and the fourth they led off with them in the direction to Baltimore. Mr. Ludlow and the driver, having released themselves, proceeded on to Havre de Grace, from which place the former despatched a letter to Mr. John H. Barney, of this city, giving an account of the robbery.

The robbers were so well satisfied with the booty obtained from the mail, that they did not attempt to rob Mr. Ludlow, who had a considerable sum of money about his person. The horse which they led off was found this morning near Bush, but no trace has been discovered of the other three horses or of the robbers.

The above statement is made from verbal information obtained in haste, but is believed to be substantially correct.

Since the above was written, the information received agrees, in general, with the facts stated. From the morning papers we learn, that the faces of the robbers were blacked; that they offered the driver ten dollars to refresh himself with in the morning, and that one of them proposed to shoot Mr. Ludlow and the driver to prevent discovery, to which the others objected, as their principle object, money, had been obtained.

We have also heard it stated, that one of the robbers enquired of Mr. Ludlow what hour it was; and, on his stating his inability, being bound, to examine his watch, the roober drew from Mr. L's. fob a gold repeater, ascertained the hour, and returned the watch to its former place.

This morning two men were arrested in a shop, where they were purchasing clothes to a greater amount in value than, from their appearance, it seemed probable they could have honest means of paying for; they were taken immediately to the Court House, where the District Court of the United States and Baltimore City Court are both in session, for examination, which still continues at the time of writing this article. A large amount of bank notes & other valuable papers has been found in their possession, some of which, it is known, were in letters in the mail recently robbed.—There is little doubt that they are two of the three who committed the robbery.

It has been ascertained, that one of the men under examination, is the same, who a few days ago, passed a counterfeit twenty dollar note, in imitation of the Union Bank notes, to Mr. Small, mathematical instrument maker, in payment for a dirk, which dirk was found in his possession.

At an early hour yesterday morning two men in a gig passed the first toll gate on the York Road, on their way to this city. They requested a boy living with the gatekeeper to lend them a hammer and chissel, with which they immediately disincumbered themselves of the shackles which it appears, from the relation of the boy were attached to their legs, and were hid under the apron of the gig.—The gate keeper on learning this, immediately followed in pursuit of them, but without success. They are now somewhere in this city.

American.

[It is ascertained that the persons above alluded to, were an officer and a prisoner proceeding from the state of Pennsylvania to this city, pursuant to the requisition of the Governor of this state, the crime of which he stands charged having been committed in Maryland. On their arrival at the place mentioned in the foregoing paragraph, in the vicinity of the city, the officer considering the prisoner secure, relieved him from his irons.]

MARCH 14.

The two men who were examined yesterday on suspicion of having robbed the mail, have been committed for trial. They state themselves to be brothers, that their names are JOSEPH THOMPSON HARE and LEWIS HARE, from Chester County in Pennsylvania. Upwards of nine thousand dollars in bank notes and a larger amount in drafts and checks has been obtained from them; but, as no part of the money and drafts in the Baltimore letters, as it is said, was found in their possession, it is concluded that the third robber must have a large sum as his share of the plunder.

THE LEAD MINES OF MISSOURI.

MR. EDITOR,

Your readers may have noticed a motion lately made in Congress respecting the laws relating to the Lead Mines of the Missouri Territory. These mines, as property of the United States are the subject of the legislation; but very little is known respecting them by the public. The following account written by a friend of mine, who has travelled much in that territory, will give some information. The mines are south of the Mississippi river, and commence a few miles from it. My friend writes as follows:

"The tract of country, called the Lead Mines, is about 40 miles square and commences about 30 miles from the Mississippi, and extends to the west. In all this tract it is supposed lead may be found, and it has already been found in different places through most of that extent. In some places it is washed out of the hills and in the roads by rains. It is found in digging from 1 to 25 feet deep. Generally there is a sand or limestone rock about fifteen feet below the surface, which is from 10 to 20 feet thick generally, immediately below which, and as deep as has yet been tried, the mineral is found in abundance. In some places it is the dirt in lumps of different sizes without any tift upon it. In other places, and more generally, it is found covered with what the people here call tift, which is a species of spar sometimes found crystalized. The spar is from one to four inches thick, covering the lead which is enveloped in it, like an egg in the shell. The spar is also found without any lead. (Quartz or flint) is found in great abundance both in and on the surface of the earth, in crystals of microscopick size, to half an inch diameter. Sulphurets are common besides the sulphuret of lead. The lead ore is strongly impregnated with arsenick, and it contains a very small quantity of silver."

The tract, which abounds in lead ore, it is obvious is as large as the county of Berkshire. In it every citizen has an interest.—For, as it is public property, it may with proper regulations become highly valuable to the United States. In the correctness of the account you may place full confidence.

FROM THE BOSTON PATRIOT.

A Standard for Weights and Measures,

It is a most singular and lamentable fact that no country has a proper standard for Weights and Measures except France.

While Mr. Jefferson was Secretary of State, he made a very able report on the subject, and the question since has been at times glanced at in Congress, but nothing has been done.

Our Carpenters' rules and squares are very imperfect, scarcely any two being alike, which, together with yard-sticks, gallon, quart, pint, and other measures, and weights, of all kinds, cannot be corrected, for where is the standard for a foot or its parts in inches? not known; where are the standards for Weights or Measures?—A Bostonian will say, in the Sealer's Office;—indeed! well, where does this Sealer prove or correct his Weights and Measures, Oh! that I dont know.—This is like the untutored Indian, who when asked what the world stood on, replied, the back of a great elephant. What does the elephant stand on? a large mud turtle;—what does the turtle stand on? I dont know that.

We sometimes laugh at the hardy sailors for considering the distance between the end of their fingers, when their arms are extended, a fathom; whether they are King John's men or Irish Giants; and the ladies too,—good souls, have a shot now and then, from some shrewd witling, because, forsooth, they all measure with the finger and consider it the same, whether it belong to a short plump rosy hand of a cherub, or a figure like the tall and prophetic Meg Merrilies;—but how much better are our boasted ivory, ebony, boxwood, brass and plated scales, than those ancient and familiar practices. In all there are Lots of Errors.

Extract of a letter, dated Kingston, Jamaica, Jan. 24th, 1818, to a Merchant of this city.

"I am highly amused in perusing your files of late Philadelphia papers, wherein Mr. or Capt. or Col. WOODBINE is said to be at Pensacola and Rampa Bay, and also among the Indians, exciting them to hostilities against the Americans. He has been in this town for some months, to my certain knowledge, transacting Mercantile affairs, and has not been near the Creek or Seminole Indians since the latter end of 1816, when he went there for the purpose of bringing up some white men to Nassau, N. P. to give evidence in a law suit he was engaged in, and with no political object whatever. If you know, as many do here, how he has been neglected by his own Government, since the peace, the United States need never expect an enemy in him. I have been intimately acquainted with him for twenty years, and his family for many more, and I never knew an individual so unjustly vilified as he is by the American newspapers."

Foreign Articles.

LONDON, Jan. 14.

By a letter of very recent date, received from Mr. Macdonald, the British consul at Algiers, we learn that the Dey has retired to the Castle, a commanding situation above the city, which he has strongly fortified, and where he has also placed immense treasure. He there bids defiance to his enemies, and has publicly notified that he does not consider himself bound by any treaties made with his predecessors, although he had before professed his intention to abide by them. He has forbidden any remonstrance on the part of the consuls, and threatens to behead any of them who may have the temerity to approach him, for that purpose. He had lately been attacked, at the head of 400 janissaries, by a person who was considered the rightful successor to the regency, whom he defeated and took prisoner: but with a moderation very uncommon in such cases among barbarians, instead of condemning him to death in the usual summary way, as was expected, he ordered him on board a Tunisian corvette lying in the harbor, gave him 1500 dollars, and fired a royal salute on his departure!

The following circular has been sent to all the members of the House of Commons, who usually vote with the administration—

"Sir,—As business of importance will be brought under the consideration of parliament, immediately upon its meeting, I take the liberty of earnestly requesting your attendance in the House of Commons on Tuesday the 27th inst. I have the honor to be, sir, your faithful and obedient servant,

(Signed) CASTLEREAGH."

From the Truro (Eng.) Gazette.

"United States Ship Franklin.—The late arrival of this formidable vessel in the waters of the country, which once possessed the supremacy over the land where she was built. has excited much attention and curiosity in our shipwrights and seamen, some of whom embraced the opportunity, while she lay at Spithead, of inspecting her construction and equipment. Nothing, we have been credibly assured, can exceed the manner in which the Franklin is fitted out both below and above her gunwale. Her rigging is neat, and adroitly managed by one of the finest crews that ever navigated a ship. Her hull is a perfect model of ship building, and the interior combines every possible accommodation and comfort, with the most excellent arrangements for the deposite of stores, in which respect she is stated to be decidedly superior to any one of our ships of war. Her means of annoyance are on a similar scale of perfection.

On all her decks she carries thirty-two pounders, a wise precaution, by which the possibility only of a single mistake in the quantum of powder and shot is avoided.—The guns, however, of the different decks, although of the same calibre, vary in length, and the uppermost tier, or those on the quarter deck and forecastle, are carronades, the whole being evidently planned for powerful and decisive close combat. Around the masts are hung sharpened axes, ready for cutting away in cases of emergency.—Indeed the whole equipment is a chief d'oeuvre, and manifests no small attention to the American navy, on the part of both its government and its seamen."

M. Bruneau, calling himself Louis 17th was to be brought before one of the inferior tribunals on the ninth of February. His Counsel had given up his defence.

An East India cure for th[e] Rheumatism.

The essential Oil of the Cajiput Tree a medi[cine] universally esteemed among the East India[ns] as a safe and certain cure for the Rheumatism, also, for bruises, sprains, fresh cuts, &c. &c.

THE above valuable medicine has but la[tely] been introduced into Europe, in consequen[ce] the tree from which it is produced, yielding essential oil but in small quantities, and chiefly monopolized by the government, ow[ing] to the great virtue it was found to possess in cure of the rheumatisms, a disease which the ple of that country are particularly subject the proprietor, however, receiving informatio[n] its virtues in a letter from his friend Mr. Jenk[ins] of the honorable East India company, has pro[cu]red through him, at considerable expense, a gular supply, and wishing to extend the benefi[t] well to the poor as to the rich, has divided original packages and put it up in bottles m[ade] for the purpose, with directions round each bot[tle] signed in the proprietors own hand writing.

PITTSBURGH.

TUESDAY, MARCH 24, 1818.

MARRIED, on Saturday evening last, by the Rev. John Taylor, Doctor WILLIAM F. IRWIN, to Miss JANE LAMONT, all of this city.

DIED, on Friday the 19th inst. Mr. JOHN KERR, innkeeper. On Saturday afternoon his remains were interred with masonic honours, in the burying ground of the first Presbyterian congregation.

—On Saturday the 21st inst. at his seat near Birmingham, Doctor NATHANIEL BEDFORD.

Both houses of the legislature of this state, have agreed to a resolution to adjourn this day.

Congress has agreed to adjourn on the 18th of April. The bill has passed both Houses, making provision for the surviving indigent soldiers of the revolution.

The Postmaster General anhounces, that he has in his possession about $90,000 in notes, drafts, &c. &c. recovered from the robbery of the mail on the 11th inst.

The Washington City Gazette states, that Col. Mullany of New-York, at present in that city, had transmitted by the mail that was robbed $ 40,000 in checks.

T. J. Rodgers, Esq. at present a member of the senate of Pennsylvania, has been elected to congress in the room of John Ross, Esq. resgined.

Mr. Miner, of the Village Recorder, in speaking of a new political party, of which it is supposed that Mr. Clay wishes to be considered as the patron and head, wittily remarks, "that it will require a pretty able putter to work the Kentucky Clay into a president."

DOCTOR AUGUSTINE SMITH, President of the College of William and Mary, in Virginia, has been appointed Professor of Anatomy, in the room of the regretted and lamented WISTAR.

Appointments by the Governor.

John Negley, prothonotary, and clerk of the different courts, in and for the county of Butler.

Robert Scott, register and recorder, in and for the county of Butler.

HARRISBURGH, March 14, 1818.

PENNSYLVANIA LEGISLATURE.

The legilsature have passed a law of immense importance to the city of Philadelphia, giving to Messrs. Hauto, White and Hazzard, the right of improving the navigation of the river Lehigh, by which that city will hereafter be supplied with coal at a very cheap rate.

The trial of the Lancaster Judges has taken up the principal part of the time of the Legislature during the past week; the Senators sitting as Judges and the Representatives as prosecutors.

The House of Representatives, of this state have voted articles of impeachment, against Walter Franklin Esq. President, and the associate Judges of Lancaster county. The charges appear by the report of the committee, on which the articles of impeachment are founded.

1. An attorney of the court received a sum of money for two clients, partners.—Each claimed it; in consequ ence of which he refused to pay it to either. On an application by one of them to the Court they ordered the money to be paid into Court, and then directed an issue to determine, by the verdict of a jury, which of the two parties is entitled to the money. It is for so doing and not themselves determining and then proceeding in a summary manner against the lawyer.

2. That the Judges did, in violation of the act of Assembly respecting Courts Martial, issue process to examine the proceedings of a Court Martial in the case of Houston vs. Dick the object of which was to interfere with the proceedings of said court.

These are the high crimes of which the Judges are impeached.—Union.

We understand that the Post Master General has decided on sending the great Western Mail on the National Turnpike Road to Wheeling Virginia, as soon as that road is sufficiently improved to insure a proper expedition, which will probably be the case in a few months. The frequent interruption of the mail in the Clarksburgh route makes this measure very desirable, and we are well assured, that the mail has been many times interrupted the past winter, from the water courses on that route, notwithstanding the exertions of those entrusted with the mails.—Nat. Intel.

Bad bank news.—The Kentucky Insurance Company has ceased to redeem its notes, and appears to have forfeited all claims to public confidence. A meeting of the citizens of Lexington, held on the 14th February, deputed a committee to inquire into the state of the Company's affairs; but the officers of the Company declined giving them any satisfaction.

A child was born in the town of Jersey Shore, Lycoming County, a few days since, with one head, four legs and arms, and two bodies as high up as the breast, where they were joined together. They were male and female, and locked in each others arms. The child was still-born.

Franklin Gaz.

Considerable damage has been done by the flood at Wilkesbarre. The two piers of the bridge which were begun last season both of them nearly finished and one quite so, have been swept away.

NASHVILLE, Feb. 17.

INDIANS.—We learn that the Cherokees are very much dissatisfied with the fate of their mission to Washington city, and a great part of them in their anger have resolved to leave their country, and go to the west of the Mississippi river. We hope their fire will last.

We learn from Fort Stoddart, under date of Jan. 20th, that Gen. Gaines is again called to Amelia Island. The troops on the Appalachicola, under Col. Arbuckle, are in danger of being lost, from the want of provisions. The Indians almost prevent the navigation of the river. It is supposed they cannot be saved unless he drops down to the scite of the negro fort, to which place vessels can come by the wind. But it is a Spanish country and is sacred? Must American settlers and American soldiers be sacrificed to etiquette.—Clarion.

SAVANNAH, March 4.

HORRIBLE.

I have to call the attention of those appointed by the law, to have the bodies of persons drowned in the river, properly interred. That it may not be supposed that my remarks are unnecessary, the following facts I submit to the public:—My business leading me down the river yesterday, I was shocked at the sight of three human carcases exposed, on its banks, the prey of "the vultures of the air." One had been placed, by the seamen of the ship Alexander, in a rude coffin, with an inscription on its lid, stating, that "they had seen it exposed, and thought it due to humanity, to keep it it from the buzzards: but that, owing to their ignorance of the law, they had not buried it, supposing some forms necessary." The lid, which these honest fellows put on the coffin, had, by the violence of the waves, been washed off, and the corpse left bare to the ravages of the feathered race.

In the name of God! why does not the coroner do his duty, and extend to the unfortunate the last act of humanity—the rites of sepulture—pointed out by the laws of every civilized nation? If the fees allowed be insufficient, let the justices of the inferior court augment them.—What, Messrs. Editors would a stranger, coming up the river, think, on viewing the horrid spectacle?—Would he not, for a moment, suppose himself on the banks of the Ganges, and not in a Christian country?

A gentleman from Calcutta who arrived in the Ellen Douglass informs us that the epidemic which raged there, and which had carried of 500 persons a day for several days in succession, was the Cholera Morbus, and was generally thought to be occasioned by the consumption of bad rice, and by eating a species of fat fish, which are taken in abundance in that season of the year. The people believed that the sickness was sent upon them by Oli Bibi, the goddess of the sickly season; and an old woman pretended that she was the goddess, prescribed a method to cure them, and among other things said the inhabitants must all go down to Salampore, and eat of the fish above mentioned. In consequence, all the palanquin bearers and others of the lower classes entirely deserted the city; and to their following her direction is attributed the alarming increase of the disorder. The old woman was at last seized by the Governor after several fruitless attempts to have her apprehended, (the people believing her not subject to the power of mortals) and put in prison. This in a great measure restored order, and in some degree health to the city.

Relic of antiquity.—The ancient house, situate on the north side of Chesnut-st. between Third and fourth-streets, No. 115, one of the first brick dwellings erected in the city of Philadelphia, which was for many years owned and occupied by the illustrious Philanthropist Anthony Benezet, was yesterday partially pulled down, to make room for an Edifice of modern structure. The badge of Insurance (No. 173) is not yet removed from the front of the house. The property is owned by Mr. Joseph Keen, Currier.

MEMORANDA.

In the House of Representatives of the United States, there are now out of 184 members, only six who were members of the Tenth Congress, (1807-8-9) and have continued in the House without intermission. Of those who were Members of that Congress, and are Members of the present House, but who have had intermissions of service, there are but six or seven. Yet the principle of rotation is even more strongly illustrated, in the Senate of the United States, though intended by the Constitution to be the more permanent service. In that body there is but one individual who was a Senator in the Tenth Congress. In the Senate at present eight Members out of forty were Members of the House of Representatives in the Tenth Congress; and of the present House of Representatives two Members were in that Congress Senators, both from the State of Maryland.

These facts afford materials for much reflection on the practical operation of our system of government.

It may be added, that there is no Member of the Executive Department of the government who was then concerned in the administration of the government. Mr. MONROE was then a Minister abroad, and Mr. ADAMS a Member of the Senate. Of the present Governors of the several states, there is not one who at that day filled the same Office. Of the twenty, two were then Representatives in Congress.—Nat. Intel.

FEMALE INTREPIDITY.

To the Editor of the Kingston Chronicle.

Sir.—The following instance of female heroism, which occurred in December last, is worthy of record, and as it happened in a country where the press is enslaved, I am of opinion it will be buried in oblivion if not rescued by you:—

In the interior provinces of New Grenada, a number of parties of Patriots have sprung up in formidable bodies, who had penetrated to the out-skirts of the capital of Santa Fe de Bogota. The Royalists discovered and seized a number of emissaries or spies, who communicated with the Patriots, and among them a woman named Policarpa Selabarriet, born in the town of Guachias, by means of whom plans and instructions to invade the capital were transmitted to the Patriots. In spite of all the threats and tortures which were inflicted on her, to make her reveal the authors of these documents, found in her possession, she persisted in secrecy to the last, and this heroic woman died with the greatest fortitude, exclaiming to the moment of her execution, "You shall not hear it from my mouth: I will die—and may those live who can free the country!"

NOVEL LAW CASE.

The Commonwealth. vs. Thomas Leonard. } Eaves-dropping.

Last Thursday, came on, before his honor, Judge Ross, the trial of Thomas Leonard, charged with being an eaves-dropper! His offence, it appears, although recognized by the law, has not been tried in any court of justice in this commonwealth for many years. An eaves-dropper appears to be one, who lays under the windows, &c. of a person's house and listens to the passing occurrences of a family, with a view of giving publicity to slanderous and injurious reports. The novelty of the case drew to the Court-house many spectators. Able counsel was employed on both sides, and after lengthy pleading, which lasted till sunset, the jury, on Friday morning, returned a verdict of guilty on two indictments out of four. His honor, Judge Ross, after a brief exposition of the character and conduct of an eaves-dropper, pronounced sentence, which was—that he, Leonard, pay a fine of 20 dollars to the commonwealth—give security to the amount of 100 dollars for his good behaviour for one year, and pay the costs of prosecution.

Ecclesiastical Authority for Dancing.

Louis XII. of France held a grand court at Milan, 1501, where the balls are said to be magnificent. Two Cardinals, Cardinal de Narbonne and Cardinal de St. Leverin, footed it there with the rest of the courtiers. Cardinal Pallavino relates, that the fathers, doctors, bishops, and other church dignitaries assembled at the Council of Trent; rested for awhile in 1562 from their theological polemics, and deliberated on the important proposition of giving a ball to Philip II. King of Spain. The project after mature discussion was adopted, the ball was appointed, all the ladies of the city were invited, and the Spanish bigot, together with all the fathers of the council, danced on the occasion.
